

St Nicks Weekly News

Friday 8th November 2024

WELCOME BACK!

We hope all our pupils and their families had a restful half term break and have adjusted back into school life.

This term we will have lots of exciting dates and events happening in school in the run up to Christmas. Please keep a look out on our newsletters, text system and Class Dojo for information over the upcoming weeks.

Headteachers Message

It has been lovely to have everyone back at school this week and to hear all about your half term adventures. The children have settled in really well to school life and it is clear that the break has done them good!

Next week we will be starting the Mini Police initiative with our local PCSO Sophie Leng. She will be coming in to school on a weekly basis to work with a group of our Year 5 and 6 children.

Next week is also Anti-Bullying Week. The focus of this is respect which is one of our school values and there will be various activities going on in school. We also have an artist visiting Key Stage One this week.

Year 3 and 4 and Key Stage One are off to the cinema – this is a completely free experience that we have managed to get involved with and we are very grateful for these tickets.

We have updated our Behaviour Policy and it is attached to this newsletter and has also been put on the school website along with the Edukos Trust Behaviour Policy. If you have any questions about this please feel free to email them to the office and we will reply to you as soon as we can.

I hope that you all have a lovely weekend and we look forward to seeing you all on Monday for week 2 of this part of the autumn term!
